

Here are some photos that will help you get to the Pope Creek trailhead:

1. Cross the guard rail at the Pope Creek Bridge

2. Follow the asphalt road

3. Turn RIGHT at the ranch road

4. Hike 0.2 miles (and two turns)

5. The trailhead is near this 10 MPH sign

6. The trailhead itself
(just after the 10 MPH sign)

Here is a Google Earth shot of getting to the trailhead.

The Putah Creek access of the Pope to Putah Trail is 4 miles by boat from Lake Berryessa up the Putah Creek arm of the lake. The trailhead from this end of the trail is well marked by a large rock cairn easily visible from the water (see the photo below).

Boats may also be launched from the Royal Elk Park Management, Putte Canyon Campground. There is a fee to camp and launch here so check out their website for the most current information. [Tuleyome is not liable for any information on the Royal Elk site and supplies it as a courtesy only.]
